ABOUT US

UNIVERSITÀ CATTOLICA, ACCORDING TO THE SPIRIT OF ITS FOUNDERS, HAS THE OBJECTIVE OF ENSURING THE PRESENCE IN THE UNIVERSITY AND CULTURAL WORLD OF PEOPLE WHO ARE COMMITTED TO FACE AND RESOLVE, IN THE LIGHT OF THE CHRISTIAN MESSAGE AND MORAL PRINCIPLES,
THE PROBLEMS OF SOCIETY AND CULTURE

Articles of Association of Università Cattolica, Article 1

EVERYTHING WE ARE IS IN OUR VALUES

We believe in the person. Because we educate women and men, before professionals, so that everyone can express their full potential.

We believe in the freedom of thought. So that the human and professional baggage that we give our students can always be an ally for them in their future.

We believe in society so that everything we give to each student becomes a resource for society, which we want to imbue with professionalism but above all with humanity and trust.

Above all, we believe in the future with sensible optimism, because building the future is a commitment, but what makes it possible is to build it together, cultivating everyone's inclinations.

WHY UNIVERSITA' CATTOLICA?

Because here everyone can feel free to express their potential.

Because here each path is individual, as is the sensitivity of each one.

Because here everyone is put in a position to give their best.

Because here every person counts and is part of a community to be cultivated with care.

Because our history is made up of our past, but above all of today's commitment to planning an unprecedented tomorrow.

IDEAS, HISTORY, VALUES

Understanding the reality in which one lives is a necessary condition to be able to act responsibly and consciously in every field and to become professionals able to have an impact in different contexts. In order to be able to read a constantly and rapidly changing reality, today, even more than in the past, it is necessary to be able to combine different points of view: from the economic to the legal, from the political to the psychological, from the sociological to the historical.

It is on this idea that the educational profiles active within the Faculty of Political and Social Sciences at Università Cattolica are based, all characterised by a multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary approach, which is therefore the Faculty's point of distinction and strength. This approach translates into a teaching method that combines cultural education and professional preparation. A method aimed very distant origins, born with Università Cattolica: the degree programme in Social Sciences dates back to 1921, the year in which the University was founded, from which, at different times, the Faculties of Political Science and Sociology took shape. Today, the two faculties are once again united in a project that is both solid and innovative. There are many outstanding scholars and masters who have characterised this long history. Among them we remember: Marcello Boldrini, dean of the Faculty of Political and Social Sciences from 1935 to 1947, statistician, academic of the Lincei and long-time collaborator of Enrico Mattei at the top of the national oil industry; Francesco Vito, dean of the Faculty of Political and Social Sciences from 1947 to 1959, economist, academic of the Lincei and also rector from 1959 to 1965; Gianfranco Miglio, dean of the Faculty of Political and Social Sciences from 1959 to 1989, political scientist and constitutionalist, who devoted himself in particular to the themes of institutional reforms and federalism; Alberto Quadrio

Curzio, dean of the Faculty of Political and Social Sciences from 1989 to 2010, economist, academic and president emeritus of the Accademia dei Lincei, who was also president of the Italian Society of Economists; Michele Colasanto, first dean of the Faculty of Sociology, sociologist and vice-rector of Università Cattolica from 1998 to 2002.

I BELIEVE THAT CONTEMPORARY UNIVERSITY,
IF HAS A DUTY TO COLLABORATE FOR THE PROGRESS OF SCIENCES AND TO FOLLOW THE
METHODOLOGY REQUIRED BY EACH THEM,
MUST NEVER PUT IN THE SECOND PLACE WHAT
REQUIRES RECOGNITION OF ITS PRIMACY,
NEMELY HUMANS, THE HUMAN PERSON,
THE WORLD OF SPIRITUALITY

Father Agostino Gemelli,
founder of Università Cattolica

Our principles

FOR THE FACULTY, SAFEGUARDING THE CULTURAL IDENTITY OF UNIVERSITÀ CATTOLICA MEANS PLACING AT THE CENTRE OF POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCES, BOTH IN RESEARCH AND TEACHING, THE CARDINAL PRINCIPLES OF THE COMMON GOOD, PERSONAL DIGNITY, SOLIDARITY AND SUBSIDIARITY. THESE PRINCIPLES ARE REFLECTED IN THE FORMULATION OF THE ACADEMIC OFFER, IN THE PROFESSORS/LECTURERS' AWARENESS OF THEIR ROLE AS EDUCATORS, IN THE RESPONSE TO THE PROBLEMS AND CHALLENGES OF CONTEMPORARY SOCIETY.

THE ACADEMIC OFFER

The Faculty of Political and Social Sciences offers a wide range of training courses with a specific vocational focus. Depending on your aspirations and aptitudes, you can choose from 4 courses of programme in the Milan office, two of which are also active in the Brescia office:

- Political Sciences and International Relations in Milan and in Brescia (class L-36, Political Sciences and International Relations). The degree programme in Milan also offers a profile delivered entirely in English: International Relations and Global Affairs - IRGA.
- Sociology in Milan (Class L-40, Sociology)
- Communication and Society in Milan (class L-20 Communication Sciences). Since the a.y. 2020/2021, the degree programme has offered a profile delivered entirely in English: Communication Management. Fashion, Food and Material Cultures - COMMA
- Sciences for Social Work in Milan and Brescia (class L-39, Social Service)

The Faculty also runs a degree programme in Linguistic Sciences for International Relations (Milan), an inter-faculty course with the Faculty of Linguistic Sciences and Foreign Literatures, belonging to the L-12 Language Mediation class.

After graduation, you can continue your education by choosing one of the graduate programmes activated by the Faculty:

- European and International Policies in Milan (Class LM-52, International Relations)
- International Cooperation Policies for Development in Milan (Class LM-81, Sciences for Development Cooperation)
- Labour Management and Communication for Organisations in Milan and Brescia (Class LM-88 Sociology and Social Research)
- Public Policy (in Milan Class LM-63 Public Administration Sciences)
- Social work and co-ordination of services for immigration, poverty and non-self-sufficiency in Brescia (LM-87 class, Social work and social policies)

Double Degree

The graduate degree programme in European and International Policies, thanks to a partnership with the Martin Luther University in Halle-Wittenberg, offers its students the possibility of obtaining two degree at the end of the graduate degree programme:

- degree programme in European and International Policies
- master of Science Europäische und Internationale Wirtschaft

OPPORTUNITIES

The Faculty's traditional teaching offer is divided into lectures, laboratories and exercises/seminars: thanks to a good teacher/student ratio, all activities have a strong interactive and student involvement feature. The internationalisation of individual training courses is promoted thanks to a consolidated international network and partnerships set up by the Faculty in both European and non-European contexts, through which it is possible to complete one's training in foreign universities with various programmes: ERASMUS, OVERSEAS, ISEP, SUMMER SCHOOL.

There are also many innovative educational and extra-profiles (potete controllare? Cos'è, "extra-profile" o "extra-profiles?") initiatives offered to students. These include:

- the residential seminar on interdisciplinary teaching - Interdisciplinary Laboratory for the Construction of Knowledge (Laboratorio Interdisciplinare per la Costruzione del Sapere LINCS); study trips to European Union institutions and other international organisations (Court of Justice of the European Union, European Parliament, Council of Europe and European Court of Human Rights, United Nations, FAO);
- the study visit to NATO Headquarters in Brussels;
- the Summer Schools promoted in collaboration with Continuing Education and the Graduate School of Economics and International Relations (ASERI);
- the "Mission Exposure" project, organised in cooperation with the Pastoral Centre, which allows people to spend a summer period of about one month at a mission in a country in the South of the world.

ADMISSION CRITERIA

The admission procedures and the number of students envisaged for the Faculty of Political and Social Sciences vary depending on the degree programme chosen.

For the programmes in Political Science and International Relations (265 places) and for Communication and Society (190 places) an entry exam is required. For the programmes in Sociology (160 places) and Political Science and International Relations in Brescia (90 places) there are two types of admission, while for the programme in Social Service Sciences (70 places in Milan and 40 places in Brescia) it is necessary to pass an admission interview.

Political Sciences and International Relations (Milan) and Communication and Society

ENTRY TEST: students must take an online test aimed at verifying: text and logical comprehension and knowledge of the Italian language.

The list of admitted candidates is drawn up by assessing 60% of the average marks of the fourth year of secondary school and for the remaining 40% the score of the test.

The result obtained in the examination is valid for both degree programmes.

For the English-language curricula in International Relations and Global Affairs (IRGA) and Communication management (COMMA) the entry test still covers text comprehension and logic, but is delivered in English.

The ranking, in addition to what established for courses in Italian, provides for the award of an additional assessment mark relating to a letter of presentation by the candidate.

It is also necessary to have an adequate knowledge of English language of at least level B2*.

Sociology and Political Science and International Relations (Brescia)

FIRST MODALITY: staggered chronological order with grade (check the timetable and enrolment methods on the website).

It is aimed at students who have obtained an average point grade in the fourth year of secondary school of at least 7.5/10.

SECOND MODALITY: simple chronological order (check the timetable and method of enrolment on the website).

It is open to all students, regardless of the grade point average.

Social service sciences

Enrolment in the degree programme in Social Service Sciences is subject to passing an online admission interview. The admission interview is aimed at test basic skills and comprehension and to provide applicants with information about the degree programme and the social work profession.

The grade point average obtained in the fourth year of high school is also taken into account. It is also necessary to possess an adequate level of English, at least B1.

(*) Cambridge English: First FCE - B2; Advanced CAE - C1; Proficiency CPE - C2; Business Vantage BEC - B2; Business Higher BEC - C1; IELTS with score from 6 (B2); TOEFL IBT with score from 84 (B2); Trinity College London: ISE II (B2); ISE III (C1); ISE IV (C2); Pearson: PTE Academic with a score of 46 (B2)

SCIENCES FOR SOCIAL WORK

POLITICAL SCIENCES INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Campus of Milan

Enrolling in a degree programme in Political Sciences and International Relations means deciding to embark on a stimulating path, which allows you to acquire the interpretative tools of economic, legal, political, sociological and historical analysis. The multidisciplinary nature of the training provided by this course allows to understand and manage the extraordinarily complex dynamics that characterise contemporary institutional, economic and social systems, thus being able to support and coordinate the activities of organisations and professionals operating on the basis of sectoral competences.

Graduates of this programmes, thanks to a solid and multifaceted preparation able to stand the test of time, are particularly well equipped to successfully meet the demand for ever newer professions in today's fast-changing society, with consequent good opportunities to enter the world of work. The face-to-face teaching method is enriched by seminars, testimonials and study visits to national and international institutions, which allow students to listen to the experience of both scholars and protagonists of international relations, cooperation and national and international institutional life.

In addition, there is a wide range of exchanges with prestigious European and non-European universities.

STRUCTURE OF THE PROGRAMME

The degree programme is divided into four curriculum, from which you can choose according to your interests and professional goals:

- International Relations and Institutions;
- Cooperation Institutions and Organisations;
- Institutions, Governance and Public Policy;
- International Relations and Global Affairs (IRGA)
(entirely taught in English).

In the first year, the courses are dedicated to the basic and fundamental elements of the various disciplines, in the following years there is a progressive specialization in the main topics of the four profiles.

NOTE THEOLOGY COURSES

The study plan for each course includes attendance at theology courses, in order to provide a motivated, reasoned and organic knowledge of the Catholic faith. The programme is delivered over the three years. Classes take place 3 hours per week for 12 weeks and consist of the following topics:

- I year: Fundamental issues: Christological Faith and Scripture;
- II year: Issues of Theological Anthropology and Ecclesiology;
- III year: Theological Questions of Christian Ethics and Morals.

PROFESSIONAL OUTLETS

The multidisciplinary structure of the course means that the professional fields in which graduates in Political Sciences and International Relations find themselves working are varied.

These include:

- technical and political functions in local, national, European and international public institutions;
- organisation, planning and management in small and medium-sized companies national and international;
- management and planning in organisations representing (professional, sectoral, territorial) interests;
- management and planning of non-governmental organisations, in the different realities of the cooperative world and the third sector;
- public relations;
- publishing and journalistic companies.

STUDY PLANS

The study plans published here may be subject to change; official reference study plans will be presented in the specific Faculty Guide.

POLITICAL SCIENCES AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Campus of Brescia

The programme in Political Sciences and International Relations (class L-36, Political Sciences and International Relations), which has been offered at the Brescia campus since the academic year 2015/2016 by the Faculty of Political and Social Sciences, specifically addresses the characteristics of an area marked by a highly internationalised economy with a strong social character. It is a pathway that enables the acquisition of the interpretative tools of economic, legal, political, sociological and historical analysis. It aims to train professionals with an internationalisation- and social market economy-oriented profile, capable of contributing to the design of public policies and to the management of profit and non-profit organisations.

The cultural tradition of the Faculty of Political and Social Sciences at Università Cattolica, which is firmly rooted in a subsidiary, solidarity-based and social vision of the economy, guarantees resources of thought in line with the approach described above. The graduates of this course, thanks to a solid and multifaceted preparation capable of pass the test of time, are particularly well equipped to successfully meet the demand for ever newer professionalism, functional to the constant changes in contemporary society, with consequent good opportunities to enter the world of work.

THE STRUCTURE OF THE PROGRAMME

The degree programme meets the need to create professionals with a strong awareness and knowledge of the socio-political and economic dynamics that characterise the contemporary international reality. It is characterised by a strong multidisciplinary direction, which is initially articulated in a common path, during which basic skills are acquired in the areas of law, economics, business, sociology, statistics, history and politics, with appropriate language support. From the second year onwards, the course of study offers the possibility of acquiring specific skills, with study plans that can be divided into two profiles, from which students can choose according to their interests and professional goals:

- Economy, society and cooperation;
- Internationalisation, cultures and development

SOCIOLOGY

This degree programme has two main features. On the one hand, it provides a broad theoretical and cultural education, aimed at building the conceptual basis for understanding the major emerging social issues and the complexity of the contemporary human condition. On the other hand, it provides a solid technical-practical training aimed at the management of groups, organisations and processes of associated life in specific sectors of the world of work: crime, security, work and business, also by learning techniques for the construction and analysis of relevant information in those fields. Throughout the course, students enrich their preparation through a variety of workshop activities to ensure that they acquire the necessary skills:

- the ability to use the basic techniques of social research, also with reference to specific fields of application;
- the ability to use the basic tools for the analysis and management of organisational processes, also with reference to specific fields of application;
- specific knowledge and skills with reference to the fields of application of technical systems, human resources management, analysis and management of security problems.

STRUCTURE OF THE PROGRAMME

Workshops, in-depth seminars, exercises, group work, meetings with professionals and experts are valuable opportunities that this course offers to give its graduates the opportunity to embark on their careers with a high level of preparation and awareness.

- Crime and security
- Work and enterprise

JOB OPPORTUNITIES

A programme in Sociology means becoming a professional capable of dealing with:

- applied social research
- market research
- human resources management
- job services
- management of security systems
- evaluation of public and security
- policies management of social innovation processes
- analysis of change processes
- management of the territory

NOTE THEOLOGY COURSES

The study plan provides for the attendance of Theology courses, in order to offer a motivated, reasoned and organic knowledge of the Catholic faith. The programme is delivered over the three years. Classes take place 3 hours per week for 12 weeks, and the course is divided into the following themes:

- I year: Fundamental issues: Christological Faith and Scripture;
- II year: Issues of Theological Anthropology and Ecclesiology;
- III year: Theological Questions of Christian Ethics and Morals.

STUDY PLANS

The study plans published here may be subject to change; the official reference study plans will be presented in the specific Faculty Guide. The division into years is indicative and not binding.

SOCIOLOGY

Campus of Milano

In order to obtain the degree, 180 credits (ECTS) are required: normally about 60 credit per year are acquired by means of assessment tests for both courses and supplementary teaching activities. Each course is given a certain number of credits (ECTS), the same for all students, and a grade (expressed in a mark out of 30) which varies according to the level of preparation. The final examination mark is expressed in a mark out of one hundred and ten.

Tutoring

Students will be able to seek the advice of the teaching staff and tutors when choosing between the various subject options and when formulating their own personalised study plan to meet specific personal and professional needs.

The Internship & Placement office is also responsible for providing more operational indications in this regard.

As part of the optional training activities, which students must indicate when submitting their study plan, the Faculty has identified combinations of courses that allow the acquisition of university credits in relation to the following professional profiles. In connection with the choice of the professional profile, an orientation seminar is planned for students, organised by the faculty in cooperation with the Advice and Guidance Committee of the Sociology course.

PROFILE CRIME AND SECURITY

Choosing this profile means taking an interest in the complex dynamics of crime and security in the globalised world. Graduates from this course can respond to the growing demand for professionals who can analyse the characteristics of crime and manage security systems in a highly qualified manner.

SECOND YEAR	ECTS
1. Criminological Research Laboratory	9

Combining technical skills and attention to contextual, demographic and socio-cultural changes, graduates of this profile are professionals capable of working in sectors crucial to economic development.

SECOND YEAR	ECTS
1. Research Laboratory on Work and Enterprise	9
2. Sociology of Organisation and Work	12

THIRD YEAR	ECTS
3. Labour and Human Resources Economics	6
4. Theory and Techniques of Business Management	6

Warning

In any case, the student has the possibility of drawing up an individual study plan that provides, in the context of the optional training activities, for different combinations of courses than those suggested, provided that the study plan includes one course for each numerical order (e.g. one course among those with number 1, 2, etc.).

COMMUNICATION AND SOCIETY (COMeS)

In recent years, some radical changes have taken place in the field of media and communication in general; up to the development of large social platforms and the spread of smartphones and smart speakers. These turning points - which are still ongoing - have major cultural, economic, political and social consequences, affecting every area of our daily lives, both in the private and public spheres. In addition to a sound theoretical basis, a successful entry into this professional field requires practical skills and technical knowledge, to which COMeS attaches particular importance. The undergraduate degree programme in Communication and Society (COMeS) is a highly interdisciplinary course of study aimed at making the student acquire the skills necessary to understand the different psycho-social processes and contexts of interpersonal communication, and to critically analyze the system, the logic, and the products of the media and the creative industries in the broader context in which they operate: its educational offer - which includes three macro-disciplinary areas, such as media and communication studies, social sciences (i.e. sociology, psychology, political science, law and history) and economic sciences - is designed to prepare professionals capable of keeping pace with the processes of innovation introduced by digital media and the creative processes underlying the production of cultural goods. This tight link with the worlds of professions and businesses allows also to keep the offer constantly updated. innovation introduced by digital media and the creative processes underlying the production of cultural goods. This tight link with the worlds of professions and businesses allows also to keep the offer constantly updated. A close relationship with the world of professions and business also allows the continuous updating of the training offer.

TO GUARANTEE CLOSE CONTACT WITH THE WORLD OF PROFESSIONALS IN THE FIELD OF COMMUNICATION, COMES HAS ESTABLISHED A TECHNICAL COMMITTEE WITH EXPONENTS OF COMPANIES, ASSOCIATIONS AND PROFESSIONALS.

NOTE THEOLOGY COURSES

The study plan provides for the attendance of Theology courses, in order to offer a motivated, reasoned and organic knowledge of the Catholic faith. The programme is delivered over the three years. Classes take place 3 hours per week for 12 weeks and consist of the following topics:

- I year: Fundamental issues: Christological Faith and Scripture;
- II year: Issues of Theological Anthropology and Ecclesiology;
- III year: Theological questions of Christian Ethics and Morals.

STRUCTURE OF THE PROGRAMME

The preparation acquired in this degree programme is articulated in theoretical knowledge and practical, professional skills. The profile is articulated on three levels:

- the lessons, which provide the content and theoretical foundations of disciplines related to communication and its processes;
- laboratories, through which you get field experience in analysis and production of communication strategies, in the design of advertising and political campaigns, in the composition of informative texts for different types of public communication;
- scheduled interventions by professionals, experts and professors/lecturers(both Italian and foreign) offering the student a direct contact with the world of communication, foreshadowing a positive future job placement.

Since the a.y. 2020-2021, the programme has also included a profile delivered entirely in English: Communication Management. Fashion, Food and material cultures (COMMA).

PROFESSIONAL OUTLETS

Getting a degree in Communication and Society means becoming a professional who is able to analyse reality, interpret it and communicate it, at various levels and in various fields, including:

- media, information and cultural industries
- marketing, brand and product communication
- internal and external communication of organizations and enterprises

SCIENCES FOR SOCIAL WORK Milan and Brescia

The degree programme in Sciences for Social Work prepares graduates for the profession of social worker by enabling them to enter the State Examination for registration in the Register of Social Workers. The training is interdisciplinary, as future professionals will have to deal with complex human, ethical, legal and organisational situations. As this is a course with a high level of personal involvement, special attention is paid to the orientation and motivational support of the students. The profession of a social worker requires a constant integration of theoretical knowledge and methodological and technical-practical skills, and therefore special attention is given to internships, workshops, professionalising teaching activities, seminars and guided exercises. The direct participation of 'experienced users and family members' in the training of future social workers is an excellence of our degree programme in line with international trends.

STRUCTURE OF THE PROGRAMME

The course provides multidisciplinary training on three levels:

- theoretical courses (sociology, psychology, law, history, medicine, economics) to understand situations of need and/or social risk;
- courses in methodology and techniques specific to the social work;
- practical experiences of helping relationship management, led by experienced social workers, spread over the three years through:
 - a) an introductory placement (in the first year) accompanied by an orientation workshop for the future profession;

- b) a professional internship within social services (in the second year);
- c) an internship in innovative contexts that may constitute new areas of work;
- d) a personal training course;
- e) seminars and experiential workshops with social workers, service managers and user-experts, i.e. people with direct experience of social distress.

JOB OPPORTUNITIES

The social worker is a central figure in combating situations of social distress. He/she works as an employee in public bodies (local authorities, hospitals, social and health care companies) or in non-profit organisations (social cooperatives, foundations, associations) or on a freelance basis, in order to help individuals, families or groups with problems related to poverty, marginalisation, neglect or maltreatment of minors, conflictual separations or divorces, disability, non-autonomy related to old age, criminal measures, mental health disorders, drug addiction, alcoholism or other pathological addictions.

Campuses of Milan and Brescia

In order to obtain the undergraduate programme, 180 credits (ECTS) are required, which must be acquired during the three-year period by passing the assessment test for the courses and other supplementary teaching experiences. Each examination, taken in different ways depending on the type of course, is awarded a certain number of credits, the same for all students, and a grade (expressed in thirtieths) which varies according to the level of preparation.

The final assessment is expressed in hundredths.

Compulsory attendance

Attendance at all professionally-oriented training activities (Social Service Orientation Laboratory; courses in Social Service Methodology I, II and III and related workshop activities; professional internship and apprenticeship with related classroom tutoring) is strongly recommended. Each of these activities is essential for vocational training and it is therefore essential to attend at least two thirds of the total number of hours.

LINGUISTIC SCIENCES FOR INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The Faculty of Political and Social Sciences participates with its own teaching, organisational and research resources, together with the Faculty of Linguistic Sciences and Foreign Literatures, in the activation of this inter-faculty degree programme, which aims to train a professional with a linguistic, historical and socio-cultural, political, economic and legal background, open to the complex dynamics of globalisation and the growing interdependence between the world's macro-regions. This degree programme focuses on building solid scientific, theoretical, historical and applied language skills in at least two European or non-European languages and on acquiring a cultural, political, economic and legal background that will enable you to work in international institutions and agencies. The interdisciplinary nature of the degree programme makes it possible to trace the meanings of internationalisation back to the various components of "political" phenomena in terms of method and substance, teaching students to investigate and correlate the various aspects (historical, political, geopolitical, economic and legal) of international relations, such as, in particular, the historical-political evolution and theorisation of relations between states, international and supranational bodies in the contemporary age.

STRUCTURE OF THE PROGRAMME

The course is characterised by active teaching, which makes use of face-to-face courses, thematic seminars, language exercises and individual work geared towards an understanding of all aspects of the field of international relations, always with a view to an adequate preparation that integrates academic and more specifically professional aspects.

The Faculty may also organise, in agreement with public and private bodies, internships and apprenticeships to contribute to the achievement of the credits required for the "other training activities", and may define further specific training objectives, also with reference to the corresponding professional profiles.

The study plans can be consulted on the University website information.unicatt.it/cdl-scienze-linguistiche-per-le-relazioni-internazionali-2019

JOB OPPORTUNITIES

The graduate can carry out various activities based on the skills acquired:

- linguistic mediator for bodies and organisations operating at international level, including non-governmental organisations;
- promotion and organisation of events (congresses, cultural events) with mediation and assistance tasks;
- language facilitator to support educational activities aimed at the integration of migrants in school contexts and in both public and private companies.

The graduate will find professional opportunities:

- in multinational companies and organisations: in management and administrative secretariats, in language mediation areas
- and communication with the international public as well as those supporting the intercultural training of staff;
- in foreign customer service offices in small and medium-sized enterprises;
- in professional offices for the positions of clerk to mediation and translation services.

REGISTRATION

Registration is enrolment in the first year of university. With it you receive a registration number, which is required when registering for examinations and using the services of the university. The Italian term is immatricolazione, hence the term matricola to describe first-year students.

DEGREE CLASSES

Course classes, including degree classes (established by Article 4 of the Decree of the Ministry of Universities and Scientific and Technological Research of 3 November 1999, No. 509 and confirmed by Article 4 of Ministry of Education, University and Research Decree No. 270 of 22 October 2004), are groupings of university degree courses of the same level that share certain educational objectives and award degrees with identical legal value. To date, there are 49 degree classes, 97 master's degree classes and 8 single-cycle master's degree classes. With Ministerial Decree no. 446/2020, the Ministry of Universities and Research established three new professionally-oriented degree classes, which provide for the inclusion of at least 48 ECTS credits for workshop and internship activities, aimed at better placing graduates in the world of work. Individual universities may activate one or more degrees in each class, choose their names and decide on their curricula, subject to certain constraints. All degrees that belong to a class have the same legal value; this is why public competition notices refer to classes and not to degrees.

UNIVERSITY TERMINOLOGY

What does it mean...

ATHENAEUM

The term 'athenaeum' (ateneo in Italian) derives from the goddess Athena and therefore, by extension, the temple dedicated to her, where rhetoricians and poets recited their poems. Today it is synonymous with university.

THREE-YEAR DEGREE

The three-year degree, also known as a first-level degree, is obtained by acquiring 180 ECTS credits over three academic years. It provides the student with an adequate command of general scientific methods and content and guarantees the acquisition of specific professional knowledge. At the end of the course one obtains the title of dottore. A secondary school diploma is required for admission onto three-year degree courses.

ECTS CREDITS

ECTS credits are a method used in universities to measure the quantity of learning required of a student. Each university examination is associated with a certain number of ECTS credits, which are intended to reflect the amount of effort required; traditionally, 1 ECTS credits is equal to 25 hours of work (either personal study or attendance in workshops or lectures). Each course is assigned a certain number of credits, the same for all students, and a mark (out of 30) that varies according to the level of preparation. ECTS credits may be acquired not only by taking examinations, but also through extra-curricular activities recognised by the Faculty.

FACULTY

Università Cattolica is divided into Faculties, i.e. organisational structures that comprise one or more degree courses. They have the primary task of organising the academic activities provided for by law, the Statute and the regulations. They cooperate with the departments in organising the research doctorates.

SINGLE-CYCLE MASTER'S DEGREE

Certain types of degree last five or six years. Specifically, these are degrees in Architecture and Building Engineering, Conservation and Restoration of Cultural Heritage, Pharmacy and Industrial Pharmacy, Law, Veterinary Medicine, Primary Education Sciences (5-year duration), Medicine and Surgery and Dentistry and Dental Prosthodontics (6-year duration). In order to be eligible for the single-cycle master's degree, students require a secondary school diploma.

DEGREE PROGRAMME

The degree programme is the set of courses, broken down for each year of the course, which the student must attend, taking the relevant examinations, in order to obtain the degree.

ACADEMIC YEAR/A.Y.

The academic year begins with the start of classes (end of September-beginning of October) and ends in September of the following year.

LECTURES

Lectures run from September/October to May/June for YEAR-LONG courses. Courses whose number of hours and duration are equivalent to half of an annual course, are called SEMESTER-LONG courses. The two semesters begin in September/October and/or February and examinations are held at the end of each semester. SEMESTRALISED courses are courses whose teaching hours are equivalent to an annual course but concentrated in the time frame of a semester course. It still counts as an annual course.

EXAM DATE AND EXAM SESSION

An exam date is the date on which an examination can be taken. Each faculty decides independently, in accordance with the University's Academic Regulations, how many exam dates to schedule during the year and in which months. The period during which lectures are suspended and examinations can be taken is called a 'session'. Each academic year has three or four examination sessions (depending on the faculty).

INTERNSHIP

Internships are educational activities that bring students into contact with the world of work. Some degree courses include a compulsory internship or work experience period within organisations or companies that have an agreement with the university, to be carried out preferably during the final year. Students may also participate in internships and work experience outside the curricular course, both in Italy and abroad.

DISSERTATION OR FINAL EXAMINATION

This is a written assignment in which the student develops a personal project or research project, usually on a topic related to a subject included in his/her degree programme. It is carried out under the guidance of a lecturer. The overall assessment, which also takes into account the results of individual examinations, is given as a mark out of 110.

MASTER'S DEGREE

Master's degrees, also called second-level degrees, last two years (120 ECTS credits) and require students to already have a degree. It provides advanced theoretical and methodological training for performing highly specialist activities in specific fields. At the end of the course, graduates are awarded the title of dottore magistrale.

FIRST AND SECOND-LEVEL UNIVERSITY MASTER'S DEGREES

University master's degrees are professional training courses. They include first-level university master's degrees, which can be accessed after a three-year, and second-level university master's degrees, which can be accessed after a master's degree. They can last one or more years and at the end there is a final examination.

NURTURE

STUDYING AND LIVING THE UNIVERSITY

Entering the University means facing a world of courses and exams to choose, of professors/lecturers and colleagues to meet and know, of times to learn how to manage. Taking this path means starting to build one's future, following one's passions and interests, in a period of life full of dreams, projects, energy. Università Cattolica is the fertile ground where everyone can cultivate their talents. To this end, we provide tools and services to face with awareness and serenity all the challenges and create opportunities to get to know each other, to deepen knowledge, to grow from a human and cultural point of view.

STUDY SUPPORT SERVICES

Online services, books, tools and spaces

- iCatt

The portal that allows you to manage your university career and to have access to all personalised information on services, courses and teaching. For smartphones and tablets there is the iCatt Mobile app, which can be downloaded free of charge from both the Apple Store and Google Play

Info: icatt.unicatt.it

- Mailbox @icatt.it

Registered students have at their disposal an institutional mailbox where they will receive notices and secretarial communications, information on services and extracurricular opportunities offered by the University.

Info: www.unicatt.it/cloudmail-icatt

- Blackboard

It is the online platform for interaction and collaboration between students and professors/lecturers, on which tools and aids are available for learning and for a more in-depth study of individual course programmes.

Info: ilab.unicatt.it/blackboard

- Books

The Library System provides e-books, e-journals and online databases covering all disciplines that can also be consulted from home. It is possible to discover this great scientific and educational heritage by consulting the online catalogue sbda.unicatt.it. Through the personal Mylibrary page it is possible to consult, book and check, from a PC, tablet or smartphone, the books of one of the best Italian university libraries, with a heritage of over two million volumes that cover the history of writing, from Sumerian tablets to digital resources.

The books used in the courses can be purchased at the "Vita e Pensiero" bookshop, as well as at EDUCatt, which sells, at reduced prices, the texts prepared by teachers for their courses and also runs a loan and sales service for used books. The "Digital HUB" service, which opens up a wide range of possibilities for students on multimedia content, e-books used in courses, mp3 music files and online newspapers, is also active and available online.

- Our Campuses

There are several possibilities for studying at university.

In Milan: the departmental libraries, with books on open shelves; the central library, with a large room equipped with ergonomic workstations; the catering area, which offers reading and study places in the afternoon.

In Brescia: the library (with the consultation room where you can also access the Internet with your notebook or a laptop provided by the library itself) and the study rooms located in each campus. Since the beginning of 2022, the Campus in via Trieste has made available the completely renovated multi-purpose Hall of the Panorama Restaurant.

- Tutoring

The group tutor facilitates the integration of first-year students into the university world by supporting them in solving administrative problems, organizing their study plan, planning examination sessions, and developing an effective study method.

Each student can contact and meet individually with his or her tutor and participate in the various initiatives organized to address issues and problems of general interest.

TEST YOURSELF

Work: opportunities and advice and guidance

- Internships and placements

The Internships and Placements Service organises classroom meetings with companies, provides consultancy for the compilation of the curriculum vitae, offers simulations of selection tests and makes internship and work experience proposals available online on a dedicated portal. These opportunities, both in Italy and abroad, are open up for students and recent graduates.

Info: sep.unicatt.it

- Work at the university

During the course of study, it is possible to work at the university, to start a paid experience by collaborating with the various structures of the University (libraries, secretariats, offices) for a time equal to 200 hours per year. The announcement is published between October and November. In addition, there is the possibility to apply for a fixed-term job (Student Workproject), tailored to students, in a way that does not compromise the time to devote to studying and attending courses.

OFF-SITE?

Live your campus

- Colleges on Campus

A modern and dynamic reality on the model of Anglo-Saxon university campuses. Not only a residence in an optimal position to attend lessons: indeed, living on the College is an educational experience that, through the meeting with students from various faculties, fully integrates students into the university community and offers an educational proposal that integrates the academic curriculum, as in the case of English, German and Chinese language courses.

In Brescia, our University has an agreement with some structures, which guarantee students affordable accommodation (according to their income bracket) and above all an ideal environment to study and experience community life, always followed by an educational project and with the presence of a Head of the facility.

- College Announcement of Selection

To gain access to Colleges on Campus and residences in the city, every year from May to September and in various locations, the College camp competition is held: it tests students through a written test and an interview. For the students wishing to get a place, during the days of the competition, they have the unique opportunity to get to know the places and services connected to the university and to test themselves in a new experience, which could be the beginning of a rich and stimulating path of study and life.

- Residences in the city

The facilities, located throughout the territory and well connected to the campuses, offer accommodation to make the most of the university period. In some cases, supplementary activities for multi-disciplinary training are also promoted.

- Accommodation on demand

It is the housing proposal that integrates the reality of the Colleges and Residences, with two different solutions: accommodation in guest quarters (Guesthouses) and Camplus offer. Two ways of conceiving residency to meet the demands of an increasingly varied audience, in independent rooms equipped with every comfort.

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST TO STUDY AT UNIVERSITÀ CATTOLICA

The tuition fee is determined on the basis of family income. Every year, approximately 3,000 students, based on merit and financial conditions, are exempt from paying university fees, while 4,000 gain access to additional financial benefits. Students with a certified disability equal to or greater than 66% and students with a recognised disability pursuant to art. 3, subsection 1 or subsection 2 of Law no. 104 of 5 February 1992 are entitled to total exemption from enrolment fees and university contributions, paying €100 upon registration in the first year and then upon enrolment onto each subsequent academic year. In order to obtain the exemption, the aforementioned students must present original, valid documentation to the Services for the Integration of Students with Disabilities and SLD of the relevant campus. There are also concessionary rates for off-site students resident in the colleges of the Università Cattolica.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND FINANCIAL AID

- Economic benefits

Scholarships, reimbursement of tuition fees, monetary aids, admission and re-admission to university colleges at reduced rates, access to the catering service at lower prices. These are the formulas proposed to reduce the costs of study according to income and merit requirements.

The online platform MyEDUCatt is a direct thread that allows you to submit your application and check the processing status of the file at any time.

Info: educatt.it/agevolazioni

- Other benefits

The benefits are available to students committed to study and work, students enrolled and belonging to the same household at the same time, students with a certified disability or in whose household there are family members with CERTIFIED disability. In addition, special benefits are provided for those who, although already in the minimum income bracket, are in particularly difficult and serious economic conditions and are unable to obtain the scholarship. There are also various competitions organised by private bodies, foundations, associations or organisations. The list is updated and available online.
